

Ukrainian Rescue Truck Drivers

After Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine in February 2022, volunteer drivers carried civilians out of areas under attack. Pablo is one of them.

What These Drivers Faced

- According to Mike North, Ph.D., Shiftwave Co-Founder, Inventor and CEO, who filmed the video, Pablo drove "day and night all over Ukraine," and the drivers had evacuated 9,000 kids so far.
- Drivers from one Ukrainian group, Proliska, helped 5,300 civilians evacuate by July 2022. (UN OCHA)
- Drivers waited out shelling for "an hour or two" on mined roads, and in May 2022 five drivers and staff were reported missing or captured. (UN OCHA; BBC)
- Mike North said the drivers were "not getting any sleep" and "totally stressed out." A coordinator told the BBC: "I don't sleep." (BBC)

What Pablo Said After Using Shiftwave

> "Stress, yes. It's gone. The stress is leaving."

> "My head is freeing up. It was clenched, it was tight."

> "It will be a great help for our guys, who are saving people, who are saving children."

Why It Matters for US Truckers

Long hours, irregular sleep, and stress that builds up behind the wheel are part of every professional driver's job. These drivers faced them at the extreme, often with little rest between runs. What Pablo described is a reset that fit where the drivers were.

Video filmed April 2022. Mike North, Ph.D., Shiftwave Co-Founder, Inventor and CEO, is filming. Pablo's words were translated from Russian and Ukrainian.

[0:00] Mike North: He's been driving day and night all over Ukraine, going right into the front lines and evacuating women and children and orphans. They've evacuated 9,000 kids so far. They're just not getting any sleep, they're totally stressed out, and they're being exposed to trauma themselves. So now they're going to have a Shiftwave there for them to use.

[0:24] Mike North: So Pablo just did the Shiftwave. He's been driving the buses.

[0:29] Pablo: Thank you very much.

[0:31] Mike North: How do you feel? Stress?

[0:35] Pablo (translated from Russian): Stress, yes. It's gone. The stress is leaving. Very good, and my head is freeing up. It was clenched, it was tight. My head is relaxing, it's going out, going out. A lot better, really. Thank you. Super, just super.

[0:53] Pablo (Russian, then Ukrainian): This will be a big help for our guys. It will be a great help for our guys, who are saving people, who are saving children. So thank you very much, thank you very much, from the bottom of my heart.

[1:07] Mike North: They need some serious on-demand R&R.
